

SIERRA
PACIFIC WINDOWS

THE WEST COAST BUILDERS' SECRET JUST WENT NATIONAL.

West of the Rockies, Sierra Pacific is the hottest window brand around. Now, we're even better. Sierra Pacific recently purchased Hurd and Superseal, with their combined 150 years in the window industry. We're handpicking the very best from each of these companies—the best windows, best engineering, best designs, best features, and definitely, the best customer service. So suddenly builders all across America have a nice, new, easy way to differentiate their homes. It's a good day to discover Sierra Pacific.

WINDOWS THAT NEVER COMPROMISE.

Whether you're building a million dollar mansion like the one shown here, or a small urban home for a young family, or simply putting new windows in your Mom's house, Sierra Pacific will make you proud.

We have all the styles, features, and curb appeal you could ask for. Our product lines range from totally custom expansive windowscapes, to high quality windows that provide high performance at a nice, mid-range price.

We have more than 600 dealers, distributors and company stores across the country to give you unwavering service. We have 3 strategically located manufacturing plants to deliver your order when and where you need it.

In fact, our windows are proudly installed in 30 countries around the globe.

QUALITY CONTROL. WITH A SHARP FOCUS ON CONTROL.

There are two types of quality control. The first type is defensive: catch deficiencies and fix them. Instead, we prefer to go on offense.

We invest in training; turning employees into craftsmen. We empower them with pride in their work and ownership of the final products. At every key point in the making of your window, an experienced and quite picky craftsman approves it and signs his or her name.

Of course, quality control goes far beyond just the manufacturing process. At Sierra Pacific, we're committed to delivering absolute quality in absolutely everything we do.

"Do it right." - Red Emmerson, our founder

IF YOU COULD BUILD
YOUR OWN WINDOW COMPANY,
IT WOULD PROBABLY BE A LOT LIKE OURS.

Photo courtesy of Douglas Knight Construction and Mike Upwall/Architect.

Your window company would have unique products. Highly responsive dealers. Unparalleled service. An industry leading warranty.
It would certainly deliver your orders on-time and complete.
And you'd insist that your window company be extremely easy to deal with. Because, after all, you're the boss.
Fortunately, you've just described Sierra Pacific Windows. We're doing everything it takes to be your new window company. Let's build our reputations together.

OUR 1,900,000-ACRE MANUFACTURING PLANT.

Sierra Pacific Industries, our parent company, sustainably manages 1.9 million acres of timberland. SPI is the largest millwork producer in the U.S. and the third largest lumber company.

But our size is only a small part of the story.

SPI plants 7 million new trees every single year. So 100 years from now, our forests will have more trees—and bigger trees—than today.

As a proud part of this family-owned, environmentally-committed company, Sierra Pacific is the only window company that maintains continuous quality control from the moment our tree seeds are planted until our beautiful wood windows are produced, approved and delivered to you.

Our quality control starts here. We craft windows and doors from select wood species grown and harvested in our own forests.

SIERRA PACIFIC

WINDOWS THAT NEVER COMPROMISE

